NOTE TO: NIO/LA

Bob,

I talked to my close friend from UN days, Ambassador Miguel Solano-Lopez, who is currently the Paraguayan Ambassador to the United States here in Washington. He is dying of leukemia and thinks he has a very short while left to live. Several of his friends I have talked with also think his case is hopeless. He sounded cheery on the phone, but readily brought up the tough, insurmountable problem that he bears. "I will continue to fight," he says.

No action required on this--for your information only.
